The Patriot Mitchel.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 8.—A. M.
Capt. Simmons of the bark Winslow arrived at New Bedford yesterday, from the Pacific, reports at Fernambuco, July 31, the British bark Neptune, of London, having on board Mitchel, the Irish Patriot and other convicts, bound to Cape Town. Capt. S. obtained a personal interview with Mitchel, and learned from him that his health was materially improving—The Neptune had put in for refreshments, having had a passage of 100 days from Fernambuco.

ernor-General, Lord Elgin, embarked on board of the mail steamer Cherokee, from the Highlander, yesterday. The Cherokee, from New York, arrived at Quebec on the 2d inst.

A Word to the Freeman's Journal.

The Freeman's Journal of this City has maintained with a degree of coolness beyond comparison that the Hungarians were not only a set of rebels but that they were animated by a violent spirit of hostility to the Roman Catholic Religion.

We have not thought worth while to reply to this falsehood, but finding the following statement in the Freeman's Journal of Dublin, the organ of the Catholic prelacy of Ireland we copy it not only for the benefit of the unscrupulous mun-archist who edits the Catholic paper in this City, but to show that all Catholics do not share his sentiments:

The organs of opposition it out that the present struggle is a religious war. This is an ungodly device to rob Hungary, under a pretense of love for its Protestantism, of the sympathy of Christendom.

It is this struggle that is now threatening—it leads to the heart, while it promises to give the peace.

To put an end at once to this disgraceful trick, we beg to call the attention of the public to the following analysis of the statement:

The organs of opposition it out that the present struggle is a religious war. This is an ungodly device to rob Hungary, under a pretense of love for its Protestantism, of the sympathy of Christendom.
